European/International Joint PhD in S.R. & C. Institutional News

The European/International Joint PhD in S.R. & C. regains its autonomy

The European/International Joint PhD in Social Representations and Communication has regained its full autonomy and is no longer integrated as a curriculum of the doctorate in Social Psychology, Developmental Psychology and Educational Research.

The European/Joint International PhD has fulfilled all the following criteria set by the Italian Ministry for University and Research for the accreditation of doctoral programmes (22 May 2013):

1. Approval by the Sapienza Doctoral Committee (29 April 2013)
2. Positive evaluation by the Sapienza University Quality Evaluation Board (4 June 2013)
3. Approval by the Sapienza Academic Senate (13 June 2013)
4. The European/International Joint PhD is a consortium of universities (among which at least one Italian university) that delivers a joint diploma
5. The doctorate's Scientific and Teaching Board scientific production for the last five years has been positively evaluated
6. Thanks to the recently approved PEOPLE-INT-2013 project the European/International Joint PhD has more than the minimum required 4 fellowships that must be made available yearly
7. Availability of a fully equipped multimedia laboratory
8. Availability of an adequate physical and virtual library

European/International Joint PhD announcement for a.y. 2013-2014

The European/International Joint PhD in S.R. & C. informs that the announcement for a.y. 2013-2014 is available on its website as well as on EURAXESS (<http://ec.europa.eu/euraxess/index.cfm/jobs/fgDetails/49340>). The deadline for submitting application (http://www.europhd.eu/html/_onda01/04/03.00.00.02.shtml) is 31st July 2013. SoR.Com THEmatic NETWORK partners and colleagues are kindly invited to disseminate this announcement among the potential applicants and invite their best students to apply.

The European/International Joint PhD in S.R. & C. represents a progressive educational curriculum for training early stage researchers through research in a scientific and paradigmatic field inspired by the Social Representations Theory and Communication studies. Although having a special focus on Social Psychology and media studies, it draws in a wide scientific community across continents and many disciplines dealing with social sciences and it has created a Thematic Network of Excellence approved by the European Commission (<http://www.europhd.eu/SoReComTHEmaticNETwork>)

The European PhD, coordinated by Sapienza University of Rome, includes 17 universities in 9 European countries (AT, CH, CZ, ES, FR, IT, PT, RO, UK), 7 universities in North America (Canada, USA), Latin America (Argentina, Brazil, Mexico) and Asia (China), 1 French National Research Institute, 1 social sciences foundation (Maison des Sciences de l'Homme) and 3 SMEs in 3 EU countries (IE, IT, SE). In its role as co-ordinator diplomas are issued by Sapienza University with the signature of the rectors/presidents of the six universities which jointly confer the degree: University of Rome Sapienza (ITALY), University of Aix-en-Provence, the University of Montpellier III "Paul Valéry" and University "Lumière" Lyon 2 (FRANCE), University A. I. Cuza de Iasi (ROMANIA), and Masaryk University, Brno (CZECH REPUBLIC). The Research Trainees have then access to a large number of academic infrastructures and are followed by 1 main tutor and 2 international co-tutors in at least 3 of the above mentioned countries. Moreover, at the European PhD Multimedia Lab and Research Centre in Rome they will participate in innovative scientific and didactic activities like the International Lab Meetings and Summer Schools using technologically advanced resources.

Successful Negotiation of the PEOPLE-ITN SoReComJointIDP contract

It is with great pleasure that we announce that the project "The European Joint Doctorate on Social Representations and Communication: an innovative doctoral program in a networked international research training environment" submitted on the 21st November 2012 by the European/International Joint PhD Programme Director within the FP7-PEOPLE-ITN programme has been successful (Grant Agreement PITN-GA-2013-607279 – SoReComJointIDP). The proposal obtained an overall evaluation of 98,80/100, the best of all the 1175 submitted proposals within the 2013 call.

The SoReComJointIDP includes a training network of 16 associated partners (13 universities, 2 private companies, 1 public research centres with intensive and extensive cooperation with the private sector) in 8 European countries (Austria, Czech Republic, France, Italy, Romania, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland) and in 6 extra-European countries (Argentina, Brazil, Canada, China, Mexico, United States). Its goal is to provide doctoral training in Social Representations and Communication, a supra-disciplinary research area of the social sciences that studies the social construction of everyday knowledge in social spheres and media, disseminating European excellence beyond the EU boundaries and attracting the best Early-stage researchers (ESR) from abroad.

The project foresees the recruitment of 13 ESR fully funded on project funds. A call for vacancy will be issued defining a priority list of projects guided by the main goal of evaluating the impact of the scientific production driven by the Social Representations theory in the social arena faced with social demand. The aim is to take stock of the scientific field developed in more than 50 years by conducting an empirical meta-theoretical analysis of the literature on Social Representations, mapping the development of different paradigms, the related research methods, the thematic areas and their impact on the various applied fields within the multi-generational community of scientists and across different geo-cultural contexts. This unified research project framework will be articulated into 13 precise objectives concerning the specific research lines to be developed by each recruited ESR, matching their own interests and area of prior expertise.

A pre-announcement containing all the necessary information such eligibility criteria for potential candidates, deadlines, required documentation, amount of the fellowship, topic of the research projects, etc. is published online at: http://www.europhd.eu/html/doc/pre-announcement_people_idp_2013.pdf

The project will start on 1 October 2013 and will last 48 months. A kick-off meeting with all the partners will be held on Friday 4 October 2013 to officially launch the project.

To resume, the contract will ensure the European/International PhD's sustainability for the next 4 years through:

- guaranteeing the series of 10 training events for the next 4 years (winter, spring and summer sessions). In addition to the 13 People ESR fellows and other doctoral students enrolled into the European/International Joint PhD, researchers external to the network may also be potential candidates to participate in the Summer Schools or Spring Sessions of the International Lab Meetings and, if selected, they will be admitted without paying the event registration fees;
- the 13 fellowships that will be awarded to eligible candidates for the benefit of the whole network (that, as stated in the guidelines at page 15, paragraph 1.3.5., cannot be from Sapienza University, although they will be hosted at Sapienza, but can instead be promoted by all the associated partners, in addition to independent candidates from any part of the world except from Italy);
- covering the expenses for the network's programme management, which include the dedicated staff, the organisation and participation to coordination meeting, the dedicated infrastructures and website, administration, etc

European/International Joint PhD in S.R. & C. Training Events

21st European/International Joint Ph.D. in S.R. & C. Winter Lab Meeting 14th-15th JANUARY 2013, Rome (Italy)

The 21st Edition of the International Lab Meeting – Winter Session 2013 has been held on the 14th - 15th of January 2013 at the European/International Joint PhD in S.R. & C. Research Centre & Multimedia Lab (Rome – Italy). This compulsory intensive training event was split in two specific sessions:

- 1) The first day (14 January 2013) was reserved to the European PhD Research Trainees. Coherently with our program's training structure, it was focussed on "Meta-theoretical analysis of the Social Representations literature", providing its state of art and basic guidelines to the European Ph.D. Research trainees, also discussing some exemplary cases of meta-theoretical analysis carried out by some of them enrolled in the 2nd and 3rd year.
- 2) The second day (15 January 2013) of the event was open to world-wide participants and consisted in a Seminar – followed by a Group Discussion – on the topic "Writing skills and publishing policies: increasing the odds of getting published in the current scenario". The session included the following lectures:
 - a) Annamaria de Rosa: For a multi-format publishing: aims, guidelines and editorial constraints
 - b) Bruno Mazzara: The current debate about metrics and non-metrics approaches to the evaluation of scientific products
 - c) Giovanna Leone: Critical remarks on the controversial debate about the evaluation of the scientific quality and publishing strategies
 - d) Mauro Sarrica: Bibliometric tools: when, why and how do you use them

All information about the event is available on the European PhD on S.R. & C. website at:

European/International Joint PhD in SR & C Intensive Training Session 2nd-4th OCTOBER 2013, Rome (Italy)

Given the combination of the launching of the new People 2013 SoReCom Joint IDP project won by the EuroPhD and the EuroPhD traditional activities (Final Jury, Lab Meeting and Recruitment Board), this year's Summer School will be transformed in a shorter, but intensive EuroPhD Octoberfest to be held in the magnificent new location at the top of the Aventino Hill.

The scheduled program of 2013 EuroPhD Octoberfest includes:

Wednesday October 2, 2013: European PhD Final Jury 2013

Tuesday October 3, 2013:

1. Morning session: three Key lectures by:
 - a. prof. Radim Marada (Masaryk University, Czech Republic): "Urban Memory: anchoring the past in material objects"
 - b. prof. Lilian Negura (University of Ottawa, Canada) "Investigating Social representations thorough Content analysis of multiple qualitative sources (interview, texts, focus-groups, etc.)"
 - c. dr. Andrei Holman (University Al Cuza of Iasi, Romania): "Beauty and aesthetic surgery: cross-cultural patterns of social representation and practice"
2. Afternoon session:
 - a. Selection of candidates for a.y. 2013-2014 restricted to the European PhD Recruitment Board and the candidates admitted to the selection

Friday 4 October 2013: PEOPLE ITN 2013 contract kick-off meeting, with the presentation of the SoReCom Joint IDP training activities planned in the period 2014-2017 and inaugural party

Summer School for Ph.D students: The challenge of Diversity in Well-being promotion University of Oslo, July 29th – August 2nd

University of Oslo is proud to announce a Ph.D course in Positive Psychology in week 31 (July 29th – August 2nd) 2013 at the University of Oslo, Norway. The title of the course is: Positive Psychology and the Challenge of Diversity in Well-being Promotion

The course is given by Antonella Delle Fave from the University of Milano. Delle Fave was one of the contributors to the famous millenium issue of American Psychologist (edited by Seligman & Csikszentmihalyi) in which positive psychology was launched and she has served as president for the International Positive Psychology Association (IPPA). You find all relevant information about the Summer School and the course in positive psychology here:

<http://www.sv.uio.no/english/research/doctoral-degree/summer-school/index.html>

The course gives 10 ECTS credits. Number of places are limited, and will be given to those PhD-students (students from other disciplines than psychology are welcome) who register first.

Upcoming International Conferences and International Visiting Exchanges

IAREP/SAABE/ICABEEP 2013 conference Atalanta, July 25th-29th 2013

By the invitation of Clayton State University, the 2013SABE/IAREP/ICABEEP conference will be held at the university's campus in Morrow, GA and will dedicated to the issue "Bringing Economics and Psychology together in the Wake of the Financial Crisis".

In the wake of the financial crisis, economists who've been calling bubbles wish they knew a bit more of people's psychology; psychologists are eager to fine-tune and make adoptable economists' tools of analysis; in business schools treating risk have always involved a mix of econ-psych with variable proportions ... Today many of us have the same goal. We want to generate knowledge for the good society to avoid another crisis... We aspire to define finance as the stewardship of society's assets... What can we learn from each other?

This conference is one of the biennial meetings of the two largest organizations in the fields of behavioral economics (SABE) and economic psychology (IAREP). The conference, run in conjunction with ICABEEP (an umbrella organization for behavioral economics and economic psychology), attracts scholars from the fields of psychology, economics, management, marketing, consumer behavior and other related fields.

The Programme Director of the European/International Joint PhD in Social Representations and Communication, prof. Annamaria de Rosa, will participate to the event with the contribution on "Social representations of the stock market in financial advisors, investors and media: a field study carried out in Europe and China"

- 14:00: Participation to the seminar organised by LACCOS

2- VIII JIRS – VI CBRS Recife, August 27th-30th 2013

The VIII JIRS and VI CBRS will be held in Recife on 27-30 August. The conference theme, "Development of the Theory of Social Representations (TSR) : Euro-American travels" favors a critical evaluation of theoretical advances produced by American and European researchers, as well as reflections on the state of the art and future developments of the theory. Seeking to strengthen the philosophy and major issues that occurred during previous conferences, the workshops will have the following main objectives:

- Create a space for communication and discussion of studies and research in the field of social representations, within different areas of humanities, through the presentation and discussion of theoretical and conceptual analysis and of empirical research results, which also consider the production of proposals of intervention in these fields.
- Contribute to the interdisciplinary development, particularly in the area of humanities and social sciences, through reflections on the links between different areas of knowledge, to the scope of strengthening, deepening and diversifying the production in the field of study of social representations.
- Foster links between the TSR and other theories and concepts of psychology through academic debate, encouraging dialogue between theoretical researchers and methodological innovations.

The Programme Director of the European/International Joint PhD in S.R. & C., prof. Annamaria de Rosa, has been invited by the conference organisers to participate with the contribution on "From the Couch of the Psychoanalyst to the Social Networks: discussing Actuality of the 'Opera Prima' Fifty Years Later"

Upcoming International Conferences and International Visiting Exchanges

EADTU: The Open and Flexible Higher Education Conference 2013 Transition to open and on-line education in European universities Paris 24th – 25th October 2013

This year's scope of the Open and Flexible education conference is about "Transition to open and on-line education in European universities". This concerns topics directly related to:

1. National and institutional aspects of opening up education: the open education market, participation in lifelong learning, international marketing, demands international students, the ability of governments and universities for opening up education, financial mechanisms for open and online education, business models, policy incentives
1. Institutional models for online or blended course and curriculum development and delivery: strategies and business models, organisational models, collaborative courses, online and blended mobility, innovation and change processes in the transition to technology based teaching and learning, enriched learning environments, tutoring and learning communities, reorganisation of curricula involving blended teaching and learning
1. Innovations in technology enhanced learning for the future: mobile learning apps, tablet computing, next generation e-books, open publishing, open educational resources, MOOCs, learning analytics, game-based learning, augmented reality, commercial short courses for professional development, assessment for learning with diagnostic feedback, badges to accredit learning, seamless learning,... (see also Innovating Pedagogy 2012, the Open University; Horizon Report – 2012 Higher Education Edition, the New Media Consortium)
2. Quality assurance in online and distance learning: internal and external quality assurance processes, accreditation processes, benchmarks and standards for online and distance education, online or blended education and quality assurance and accreditation agencies
3. Other and related topics to be covered are: Modernising universities; Educational technology; Networked Curricula; QA in e-learning; Open Educational Resources and MOOCs; E-learning forecast studies; Good practices of transitions to open and flexible learning; Models of open and flexible learning; Current procedures in OER and MOOCs; Schemes for virtual and blended mobility; Innovative pedagogies; On-line assessments; E-learning forecast studies

The Programme Director of the European/International Joint PhD in S.R. & C., prof. Annamaria de Rosa, will participate to the conference with the contribution on “Complementary on-line and face-to-face structured training activities in a joint networked international doctorate”

Previous International Conferences and International Visiting Exchanges

EASP Small Group Meeting: Developing Diversity in EASP University of Lausanne, Switzerland, June 12 – 14, 2013

The EASP SGM on “Developing Diversity in EASP”, organised by Steve Reicher (St. Andrews University), Ewa Drozda-Senkowska (Paris Descartes), Bernd Simon (University of Kiel), Christian Staerklé (University of Lausanne) and Chiara Volpato (Milan Bicocca) was held at the University of Lausanne (June 12 – 14, 2013).

From its inception, EASP was committed to developing a social psychology which embraces all of Europe, which includes all sections of society and which is open to multiple intellectual traditions. In many ways, the Association has made remarkable strides forward in all of these respects, but equally, it is undeniable that we are still far from perfect, for example in terms of geographical diversity, gender equality and scientific recognition of different intellectual and methodological traditions. Moreover, it is arguable that the current economic crisis may have detrimental effects on our discipline. Funding cuts may affect the periphery more than affluent centres and increased competition privilege traditionally valued forms of research.

This small group meeting addressed these issues. It had three aims: (1) to clarify the current state of affairs as concerns diversity in EASP; (2) to analyse the source of the problems; (3) to develop concrete plans for changes in the Association. The meeting was structured in workshop format in order to maximize discussion and ensure that concrete outputs emerge from these debates. For each workshop participants were asked to prepare position statements as a basis for discussion.

The Programme Director of the European/International Joint PhD in S.R. & C., prof. Annamaria de Rosa, participated to the conference with the contribution on “As time goes by... An empirical look at the geographical diversity in the EASP and in a sister community in social psychology (social representations)” (contribution jointly presented with Dorra Ben Alaya, Andreea Ernst-Vintila and Adrian Neculau)

VI EUA-CDE Annual Meeting: From Student to Researcher – are we on the right track? Hosted by the University of Warsaw, Poland - 18-19 June 2013

The trend is clear: structured doctoral education is becoming the norm for doctoral education. Universities have introduced doctoral schools and taught courses; they are monitoring the progress of doctoral candidates and quality of supervision and research in doctoral programmes. At the same time, new legislation is being drafted or implemented across the continent. There are new requirements for the institutional management of doctoral education, and quality assurance agencies and research assessments are taking a more specific interest in the area. This is a good time to ask: are we keeping focus on the goal of doctoral education, to make students into researchers? Are we on the right track?

The Sixth Annual Meeting of the EUA Council for Doctoral Education held last June in Warsaw is the largest gathering of all stakeholders in the field of doctoral education in Europe. It provides ample opportunities for open discussions of challenges and opportunities between colleagues from all over Europe. There were learning opportunities for newcomers to the field of doctoral education as well as a master class for the ‘veterans’ of the field. The conference aimed specifically at opening discussions between different stakeholders such as university leaders, researchers, political decision-makers, funding organisations, quality assurance agencies and all others interested in the development of doctoral education.

The Programme Director of the European/International Joint PhD in S.R. & C., prof. Annamaria de Rosa, participated to the conference with the contribution on “Combining structured and networked training approach in international doctoral education”

Editorial News

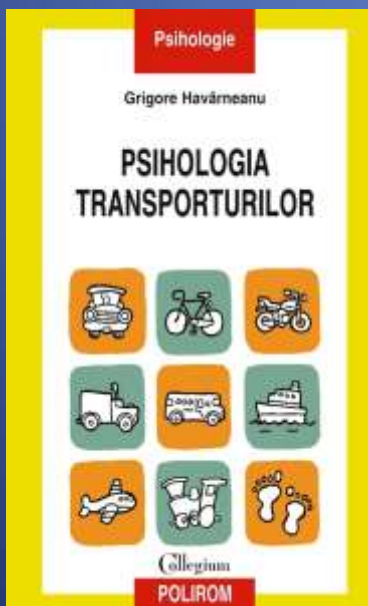

The forthcoming publication of Serge Moscovici's book "Le scandale de la pensée sociale", a series of Moscovici unpublished works that have been gathered and introduced by Nikos Kalampalikis, will be available in September 2013 on E.H.E.S.S. website (ISBN 978-2-7132-2375-4. Publisher: E.H.E.S.S. <http://www.editions.ehess.fr/ouvrages/ouvrage/le-scandale-de-la-pensee-sociale/>)

In 1961 Serge Moscovici elaborates the Theory of Social Representations. This collection of unpublished works (in French) tells of the theory's genesis, questions its link with social psychology as well as its current pertinence.

How to understand the economic crisis? How to face ecological challenges? What is a healthy nutrition? Why bioethics? To explain what is happening in our complex world, we create metaphors, images, symbols and words that form social representations. In 1961, Serge Moscovici proposes a theory of those representations. This book gathers, for the first time, some unpublished works (an articulated and argued answer to a critique article, a comment on a text, a conference, a discussion, etc.). Those works are a precious tool to understand the path of his theory in the history of ideas, to question its link with social psychology, but also its pertinence to understand our current societies.

Editorial News

We are proud to announce that one of European/International Joint PhD holder, Grigore Havarneanu, has published his first book on the subject of his PhD thesis "Psihologia Transporturilor" (ISBN 978-973-46-3238-1. Publisher: Polirom). The book is introduced by our deeply regretted friend, Adrian Neculau.

This book aims to apply cognitive and social psychology for understanding and explaining human behavior in traffic. The main objective is to make the reader familiar with the main theories in the field and the most important results of recently published studies. In addition to the theoretical orientation, the work has been directed towards practical possibilities of psychological intervention to change aberrant behaviors and improve driving performance. In this direction, the emphasis is on other types of intervention than skill assessment. The concepts, models and theories in the literature are discussed in the Romanian traffic context, pointing out the weak points of the road safety in this country and seeking to broaden the range of activities of private traffic psychologists.

The book covers the fundamental topics in the field, but also emphasizes on the approaches that are less common. Based on a comprehensive analysis of the theoretical and empirical literature, the book provides a reference framework for a modern psychology of road user behavior, which includes driving behavior but is not limited to it.

It can also persuade students to get involved in this area of applied psychology and conduct more research on human behavior in the traffic environment. "This book belongs to a representative of a new generation of professionals, generation that had access to sources of information and new practices, familiar with recent research in the field, and taking what is best from the internships in major research centers and laboratories in Europe" (Adrian Neculau).
