During the month of October 2015, the Early Stage Researchers have continued their secondments, spread all over the world, from China to Mexico, from Canada to Brazil, from Argentina to many EU countries: Austria, Czech Republic, France, Romania, Spain, Switzerland

Following the completion of the careful check of the data and meta-data, related to more than 10.000 bibliographic items, the new massive data import has been successfully imported into the SoReCom “A.S. de Rosa” @-library.

In order to improve the search of missing or new PdF, some ESRs have collaborated with dr. Laura Dryjanska to the supervision of six master students who are contributing to the development of the “A.S. de Rosa” @-Library by collaborating to the unified research program on the meta-theoretical analysis for their master thesis supported by the extra-EU Sapienza mobility scholarships in Argentina, Brazil and Canada.

Weekly monitoring Skype Meetings during the secondment was continued with the Early Stage Researchers in order to discuss the meta-theoretical analysis carried out on previously selected publications, to be informed about their progresses and complementary activities followed at the host abroad institution and to assist some of them in conference presentations.

Following previous formal communication (October 9), on October 14 and 15, 2015 and November 5 and 6, Skype meetings with each ESR and Sapienza Supervisory Board and in some cases with the co-tutors at the host abroad institution have been organised in order to:

- present the 13 recommendations from the REA-Research Executive Agency after the Mid Term Review;
- share with the ESRs the proposal elaborated by Sapienza Supervisory Board;
- discuss with the ESRs in order to get their opinion and suggestions concerning the two above mentioned points.

Both the fellows and the associated partners have been invited to send their feedbacks in written format. The revised and integrated new version of the document elaborated by Sapienza Supervisory Board has been again sent for approval and/or further feedbacks.

The European/International Joint PhD in Social Representations and Communication

We welcome all new EuroPhD trainees recruited for the academic year 2015-2016 including: Diana Arghire from Romania (AliCuzi University Iasi), Corinne Buhay and Claude Lavoie from Canada (University of Ottawa), Anderson Mathias Dias and Hiram Reyes Sosa both from University of Pais Vasco (Spain), respectively from Brazil and Mexico, and Tania Santos from Portugal.

On October 19, 2015 Tania Santos – supported by Sapienza 3-years fellowship - has arrived to the European/International Joint PhD in Social Representations and Communication Research Centre and Multimedia Lab in Rome (Italy).

Her PhD Thesis will focus on the Meta-theoretical approach to polemic representations and its societal impact in diversified domains, dealing with the taxonomy of Social Representations in order to reply to the following questions.:

- How various social objects of knowledge contribute to the genesis of hegemonic, emancipated and polemic representations in three domains: politics and economy, health, work and organizational contexts;
- how these representations are managed at the societal and intergroup levels in various socio-ideological contexts;
- what is their dynamics in the society which influences the transformation of a kind of representation into another. In particular:
  - c.1. How does the PR turn, if it does, into a hegemonic representation?
  - c.2. If the transformation occurs, what are the socio-ideological conditions and what is the role played by the social movements in the new communicative scenario of the web 2.0?
  - c.3. What happens with the PR, which does not evolve into a hegemonic one and for how long and under what conditions the PR remain polemic?
  - c.4. How are the controversial topics and PR negotiated at the societal and intergroup level?
